Jackson

In the War of 1812 the British persuaded Indians to fight. Tecumseh was a chief in the Shawnee tribe. He went from tribe to tribe to unite them into one attack.

In Mississippi Territory the Creek Indians made a savage attack on Fort MIMS. They killed hundreds of men, women, and children. Jackson, ill at the time, marched boldly into Indian territory. In one battle after another, his Army defeated the Indians. They agreed to give up most of their land, because of the association the Creek Indians had made a major general in the Regular Army

Mar. 7. 1812

When the war started Sam Houston enlisted in the Army. Within a few months Sam had become an officer. He was sent to fight under General Jackson in the Creek War (in Mississippi Territory). In the Battle of Horseshoe Bend, leading a charge he was struck down by an arrow that pierced his leg. He had another officer yank it out. Then, bleeding, he led his men until he fell with bullets in his arm & shoulder. He was not expected to live, but he did & that was the founding of son. Jackson. After the war Houston went home to Tennessee. It took a long time to recuperate, Jackson went him to negotiate with the Cherokee & get them to move west of the Arkansas R. into Oklahoma. Soon afterward Houston left the Army & went back to Tennessee He studied law, began a practice & was soon known as a fine lawyer. He had been out of the Army 5 yrs when they elected him to Congress
